BIG 2015: BigData Innovators Gathering

Many of today's successful companies, government agencies, and research institutions are built on the collection and analysis of data. The volume and richness of these datasets have stimulated a massive wave of innovation. This revolution has also sparked important debates about privacy, ethics, and governance. The BigData Innovators Gathering (BIG) will bring together academic and industry leaders in the big data space to share the state of the art and its successful applications in business and other domains.
